

Carl Brave Rock

Carl Brave Rock grew up in Lethbridge and is from family members of the Kainai nation. He has been telling traditional Blackfoot stories since 2008.

His first story telling experience was at the Fort Museum. It was Raven and Thunder; one of his interactive stories that he continues to tell and involves the crowd of attendees for a fun event.

He later went to the Toronto Centre for Indigenous Theatre to study acting, singing, using instruments and learning stage combat.

Carl is back in Lethbridge and is involved in various events and loves storytelling with children.
